Commissions are automatically paid out each month between the 10th and 20th of the month if they meet the following criteria:

1. Your PayPal email address was provided
2. Commissions were earned 60 or more days ago
3. Those commissions meet the $10 minimum at the time the commissions were processed.

There may be a delay between the day the commissions were processed and the commissions are paid out. When the commissions are processed, a mass payment file is generated that is used at PayPal to pay the commissions.

Each site is processed independently, so it takes some time to retrieve all the mass payment files.

If you are checking your commissions during this period and notice that your commissions are less than you think they should be and haven't received any payments, it is because the payments were processed but haven't been submitted to PayPal yet for commissions.
